NOTE: This is a comprehensive categorized list of all known Health Realization articles from journals and other indicated publications through fall of 2013. It is intended to strengthen the resource base and understanding of trainers and scholars interested in the Health Realization principles (also called Three Principles, Psychology of Mind or Innate Health).

Most entries were published in copyrighted journals. Permission to copy should be obtained from the publisher as needed. Some items are available on-line or through university data services; a few items are posted at nationalresilienceresource.com.

Additional literature may be added to this list in the future. Please send complete citations for new items to marsh008@umn.edu. For manageability, with few exceptions, unpublished papers (including those from principle-based conferences) are not included.
