NOTE: These sample publications include some historically significant out of print titles. In other cases titles may be available in newer editions. With a few special exceptions, journal articles, professional papers, dissertations or theses regarding Health Realization (also called Three Principles, Psychology of Mind, and Innate Health.) are not included here. Resilience Research listings are limited to reader friendly summaries intended to bridge the gap between research and practice; only very selected seminal scholarly resilience research publications with a focus on youth are included by pioneers Ann Masten, Emmy Werner and others. Additional resilience research is posted on this site. With one exception audio visual and digital resources are not included. Additional information may be e-mailed to marsh008@umn.edu.
